1. Claims 1-16 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the claims are allowed due to the following limitations in claim 1:

An angle adjusting device, comprising:
a fixing seat (10) having a first end formed with an upright rod (11) and a second end having a first side formed with an elbow (12) and a second side formed with a pivot arm (13);
a handlebar stem (20) pivotally mounted on the fixing seat (10) and having a first end pivotally mounted on the elbow (12) of the fixing seat (10); a pull handle (23) pivotally mounted on the handlebar stem (20); an adjusting base (30) pivotally mounted on the handlebar stem (20) and having an inside formed with a chamber (31) having two ends each formed with an opening (32);
two sockets (40) each mounted in the chamber (31) of the adjusting base (30) and has an inner wall having an end formed with a tapered face (41) located adjacent to and directed toward the respective opening (32) of the chamber (31) of the adjusting base (30); two slides (60) each movably mounted in the sockets (40) and located adjacent to the tapered face (41) of a respective one of the sockets (40); a compression spring (50) mounted in the sockets (40) and urged between the two slides (60); two urging ball units (70) each movably mounted in the sockets (40) and between the compression spring (50) and a respective one of the two slides (60), a shaft (90) pivotally mounted on the fixing seat (10), extended through the sockets (40), the compression spring (50) and the slides (60), and fixed in the sockets (40) by the urging ball units (70); and two press members (36) each pivotally mounted on the adjusting base (30) and each having a side formed with a pressing portion (38) rested on a respective one of the two slides (60).

The closest prior art Hals (US Patent No.5,678,457) teaches, inter alia, a fixing seat having a first end formed with an upright rod 7 (Figs. 1 and 2) and a second end having a first side formed with an elbow 3 and a second side formed with a pivot arm 11, 8; a handlebar stem 6 pivotally mounted on the fixing seat and having a first end pivotally mounted on the elbow 3 of the fixing seat; a pull handle 30 pivotally mounted on the handlebar stem 6; an adjusting base 5 pivotally mounted on the handlebar stem 6 and having an inside formed with a chamber 5 having two ends each formed with an opening (unnumbered in Fig. 2); one socket 13 mounted in the chamber 5 of the adjusting base 5 and has an inner wall having an end formed with a tapered face 23 located adjacent to and directed toward the opening of the chamber 5 of the adjusting base 5; one slide 23 each movably mounted in the sockets 13 and located adjacent to the tapered face 23 of the sockets 13; and a compression spring 15 mounted in the socket 13. However, there is no suggestion to change, e.g., one socket of Hals to two sockets and one slide of Hals to two slides. Further, Hals does not teach or suggest the claimed limitations, such as, two urging ball units each movably mounted in the socket and between the compression spring and the slide 23, a shaft pivotally mounted on the fixing seat, extended through the socket 13, the compression spring 15 and the slide 23, and fixed in the socket 13 by the urging ball units; and two press members each pivotally mounted on the adjusting base 5 and each having a side formed with a pressing portion rested on the slide 23.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
